POPE JOHN PAUL II

IS IN HEAVEN

IN A FEBRUARY 1980 ADDENDUM TO HIS LAST WILL AND TESTIMONY OF MARCH 6, 1979, JOHN PAUL II ENTRUSTED “THAT DECISIVE MOMENT [OF DEATH] TO THE MOTHER OF CHRIST AND OF THE CHURCH [AND] OF MY HOPE.... IN LIFE AND IN DEATH, TOTUS TUUS THROUGH THE IMMACULATE.” EMBROIDERED INSIDE ALL OF HIS ROBES WAS THE PHRASE, TOTUS TUUS SUM MARIA, “MARY, I AM ALL YOURS.”

MUHAMMAD'S MONSTERS: A Comprehensive Guide to Radical Islam for Western Audiences

David Bukay, editor—In the new landscape, post-9/11, free societies put up a hand to shield their eyes from the intruding glare of terrorism. Nothing is as it was. Harsh realities require clear strategies. The real question is, who are we fighting, and why? Difficult as it is for the tolerant West to admit, a religion is being used to justify destruction. Militant Islamists who describe themselves as the “true believers” in the desert prophet, Muhammad, are attempting to force submission to Allah. Chillingly, it has been said that radical Islam is “standing up,” rising from the sands of Arabia to reach globally. This flexing of totalitarian muscles, under the guise of religion, is more than a common threat. If you want to understand who we’re fighting—and why—look no further than this book. Contributors include Anthony J. Dennis, Charles Selengut, Shaul Shay, Joseph Farah, Mordechai Nisan, Patrick Sookhdeo, Raphael Israeli, K.P.S. Gill and Ajai Sahni, David Pryce-Jones, Robert S. Wistrich, Gerald M. Steinberg and Aharon Etengoff, Dany Shoham, and Yehezkel Dror, with a significant foreword and summary chapter by the editor. Includes 15 chapters, in three sections: 1) Islam as a world threat; 2) Islam in the world and the minorities policy; 3) Islam and unconventional warfare. A glossary of Islamic terms rounds out this powerful resource.

Death of a Pope

Dave Hunt

The recent worldwide outpouring of grief upon the death of Pope John Paul II was unprecedented. Mourners ranged from his humblest adherents to the most powerful political and religious leaders of our day, including France's President Jacques Chirac and British Prime Minister Tony Blair. California Governor Schwarzenegger called the Pope "a beacon of virtue, strength and goodness." Former President Clinton called him "a man of God," while former President Bush said that his "adherence to liberty and freedom...gave people a real anchor."

Russia's President Putin honored John Paul's "spiritual and political legacy." President Bush called him "one of history's great moral leaders." Billy Graham called him "perhaps the most influential voice for morality and peace in the world during the last 100 years." Yet the Pope called Arafat, one of the worst terrorists and mass murderers of modern times, "Your Excellency," and never rebuked him for his slaughter of hundreds of thousands of innocent people around the world. Nor was the Pope's "moral leadership" reflected in the lives of most of his admirers. The Houston Chronicle noted that "Italians who stood in line for hours to say farewell to their Holy Father have contracepted their way to the lowest birthrate in the world." During his visit to California in September 1987, the famed hillside Hollywood sign was altered to read "Holywood"—yet Hollywood never missed a beat and remains anything but holy.

In June 2004, George W. Bush went to the Vatican to remind John Paul II that their moral values were the same and to gain support from America's 65 million Catholics in the upcoming election. South Korean President Roh Moo-Hyun called the Pope "an apostle of peace." New Zealand's Prime Minister Helen Clark ordered flags flown at half-mast for "one of the truly influential figures of the 20th century."

Such universal praise raised serious questions about the Pope's claim to be the "Vicar of Christ." After all, Christ was and still is "despised and rejected" (Is 53:3). He told His disciples that if they were true to Him, they would receive the same treatment from the world: "If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me...the servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you..." (Jn 15:18-20).

John Paul II outdid most politicians in playing all sides. During his 1987 visit to Los Angeles, he told Rabbi Emeritus Harvey Fields of Wilshire Boulevard Temple and the late Rabbi Alfred Wolf that everyone serves the "same God...no matter what their religion." Yet in Latin America in February 1996, he warned Catholics against Protestants and urged those who had left the Church to come back. In the name of "ecumenism," he declared that full unity could not be realized until all religions were subject to Rome!

In 2000 the Pope met with the President of Israel, visited the Wailing Wall, where he inserted a prayer, and assured Israelis that "the Catholic Church...is deeply saddened by the hatred, acts of persecution and displays of anti-Semitism...by Christians..." Yet he only apologized for what "Christians" have done, and never admitted the truth: that it was the Church itself and its popes that had compelled Catholics to persecute Jews.

Holocaust survivor Elie Wiesel told CNN that John Paul II "will have a very important place in Jewish history..." Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon (and Jewish leaders worldwide) called the Pope "a man of peace and friend of Israel..." Even U.S. News & World Report's Editor-in-Chief, Mortimer B. Zuckerman, usually so perceptive, praised the Pope for having "recognized the State of Israel," overlooking the fact that he had been pope for 16 years before he did so in 1994, 46 years after Israel's rebirth as a nation—and just after giving the PLO a permanent office at the Vatican.

Muslim leaders also lauded the Pope. Imam Yahya Hendi, Muslim Chaplain at Georgetown University, said that Islam (which calls for Israel's annihilation) had lost a great friend. Consistently (as in his papal bull on the Year 2000 Jubilee, etc.), John Paul II rejected Israeli sovereignty over Jerusalem. More than ten times (at the Vatican and papal palace in Castel Gandolfo) he warmly received Arafat, Israel's most vicious enemy, visited him at his palace in Ramallah, and sided with Arafat and the PLO against Israel.

Of course, praising the deceased and overlooking blemishes is usual at funerals—but even evangelical leaders joined the "all praise to the Pope" chorus. The few who told the truth were condemned by the rest. For responding to a listener's question as to whether the Pope was in heaven, Christian talk show host Marty Minto was fired by Pittsburgh's WORD radio station, an affiliate of Salem Broadcasting (see News Alert). Yet the truth is that the Pope himself did not know whether he would go to heaven, and could give no assurance to others—a rather shocking fact about the head of the world's largest church who claimed to be Christ's vicar on earth!

John Cardinal O'Connor declared: "Church teaching is that I don't know...what my eternal future will be. I can hope, pray, do my very best—but I still don't know. Pope John Paul II doesn't know absolutely that he will go to heaven, nor does Mother Teresa of Calcutta..." Cardinal John Krol, as spiritual leader of Philadelphia's more than one million Catholics, admitted that his personal major worry was about "getting to heaven." Cardinal Ratzinger (now Pope Benedict XVI), who headed the Congregation for the Doctrine of Faith, watchdog of Catholic orthodoxy (Holy Office of the Inquisition), and successor to John Paul II, expresses the same uncertainty of salvation—as he must.

Like the Pope, the Church that he led firmly rejects Christ's promise of "eternal life" (Jn 3:16) to all who believe on Him, that they have "passed from death unto life" (Jn 5:24) and "shall never perish" (Jn 10:28). Its priesthood offers endless Masses and prayers to Mary and favorite saints (thousands will be said for the dead pope), encourages pilgrimages to various shrines, and extends other means of gaining the same indulgences to shorten suffering in purgatory, a fact that upset Martin Luther and sparked the Reformation.

In a book highly rated by 250 evangelical leaders, the Pope wrote, "Baptism and the Eucharist...create in man the seed of eternal life." Rejecting the sufficiency of Christ's sacrifice and His triumphant cry, "It is finished!" (Jn 19:30), the documents of Vatican II begin thus: "It is the liturgy through which, especially in the divine sacrifice of the Eucharist, 'the work of our redemption is [still being] accomplished.'" Rome anathematizes anyone who dares to confess the very assurance of a finished salvation that the Bible repeatedly promises (1 Jn 5:13).

Catholicism's premier "televangelist" before his death, Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen (whom John Paul II called "a loyal son of the Church" and whom Billy Graham praised as "the greatest communicator" of the last century), hoped that "the Virgin" would welcome him to heaven because of his more than 40 pilgrimages to her shrines at Lourdes and Fatima. Pope John Paul II was likewise totally devoted to Mary, especially to "our lady of Fatima,” whose apparition declared that “All religions are the same. . . many souls perish because they have no one to make sacrifice for them,” a clear denial of the sufficiency of Christ’s sacrifice for our sins. His Apostolic Letter of Oct. 16, 2002, ends with these words:

I entrust this Apostolic Letter to the loving hands of the Virgin Mary, prostrating myself in spirit before her image in the splendid Shrine built for her by Blessed Bartolo Longo, the apostle of the Rosary. I willingly make my own the touching words with which he concluded his well-known Supplication to the Queen of the Holy Rosary: “O Blessed Rosary of Mary, sweet chain which unites us to God... tower of salvation against the assaults of Hell, safe port in our universal shipwreck, we will never abandon you. You will be our comfort in the hour of death: yours our final kiss as life ebbs away. And the last word from our lips will be your sweet name, O Queen of the Rosary of Pompei, O dearest Mother, O Refuge of Sinners, O Sovereign Consoler of the Afflicted....”

Rushed to the hospital, having taken two bullets during an assassination attempt on May 13, 1981, the Pope groaned in Polish, “Madonna, Madonna. . .!” He often repeated the words, “Victory. . . will be. . . through Maria.” He credited “Our Lady of Fatima” with saving his life on that occasion in Rome and from a bayonet-wielding Spanish priest in 1982, while visiting Fatima, Portugal, to thank her for rescuing him from death. But his favorite “Maria” was the “Black Virgin” of Jasna Gora in Poland—where Billy Graham himself welcomed pilgrims after preaching in Wojtyla’s cathedral while Wojtyla was made Pope in Rome. In a February 1980 addendum to his Last Will and Testament of March 6, 1979, John Paul II entrusted “that decisive moment [of death] to the Mother of Christ and of the Church [and] of my hope. . . In life and in death, Totus Tuus through the Immaculate.” Embroidered inside all of his robes was the phrase, Totus tuus sum Maria, “Mary, I am all yours.”

The Rosary, which he urged Catholics to pray continually as the means to world peace, offers a false gospel of salvation through Mary. An “apparition” at Fatima claiming to be “Our Lady of the Rosary” declared, “Say the Rosary every day... pray a lot and offer sacrifices for sinners [Christ’s sacrifice was not enough].... Only I will be able to help you.... In the end, My Immaculate Heart will triumph.” The Rosary concludes:

HAIL, HOLY QUEEN, Mother of Mercy, our life, our sweetness and our hope! To thee do we cry, poor banished children of Eve; to thee do we send up our sighs, mourning and weeping in this valley of tears. Turn then, most gracious advocate, thine eyes of mercy toward us, and after this our exile, show unto us the blessed fruit of thy womb, Jesus. O clement, O loving, O sweet Virgin Mary!

It is clear, however, that Mary did not remain a virgin after the birth of Jesus, “her firstborn Son” (Mt 1:25), but had sons and daughters through her husband, Joseph (Mt 12:46,47; 13:55,56; Mk 3:31; Lk 8:19,20; Jn 2:12; Acts 1:14) — and that she was not a special conduit of blessing from Him to others (Mt 12:40-50; Mk 3:33-35; Lk 8:19-21; 11:27,28). There is no biblical record of anyone ever praying to Mary or of her interceding with Christ for anyone’s salvation.

Among Roman Catholicism’s popular “15 Promises of Mary,” are the following: “The soul which recommends itself to me by the recitation of the Rosary, shall not perish. . . I shall deliver from purgatory those who have been devoted to the Rosary. Those who are faithful to recite the Rosary shall. . . at the moment of death. . . participate in the merits of the Saints in Paradise.” Tragically, hundreds of millions of Roman Catholics have been turned from faith in Christ alone for salvation to trusting Mary and the Rosary, as did Pope John Paul II! They will not receive salvation from Christ so long as they trust Mary or any other “saint” for it.

In “The Holy Father’s Prayer for the Marian Year,” John Paul II asked Mary to do what only God can do: to comfort, guide, strengthen and protect “the whole of humanity. . .” His prayer ended, “Sustain us, O Virgin Mary, on our journey of faith and obtain for us the grace of eternal salvation.” Faith in the only Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, is both conspicuously missing and denied by such a prayer!

John Paul II often referred to “the salvation of souls through Mary Immaculate.” Urging all Christians to accept Mary as their mother, the Pope declared that Christ’s words to John from the Cross, “Behold thy mother!” (Jn 19:27), revealed the “authentic meaning of Marian worship. . .” Claiming that “Mary is the path that leads to Christ,” the Pope urged all Christians “to make room [for Mary] in their daily lives, acknowledging her providential role in the path of salvation.” He always wore the scapular (a practice that originated from an apparition of “Our Lady of Mt. Carmel” to St. Simon Stock in A.D. 1251, and was confirmed by subsequent popes such as Pope John XXII in 1322), trusting in the promise written upon it that “whosoever dies wearing this Scapular shall not suffer eternal fire.” It is irrefutable logic that anyone, who in simple faith has trusted Christ for the salvation He provides, would consider it not only unnecessary but an abomination to wear such a piece of cloth!

In view of these well-known facts, the praise heaped on the Pope upon his death by evangelical leaders is incomprehensible! Incredibly, Billy Graham praised John Paul II for “his strong Catholic faith.” Increasing numbers of evangelicals are joining Colson, Packer, Billy Graham and others in accepting as fellow Christians Roman Catholics who embrace this false gospel. Mark Oestreicher, president of Youth Specialties, called the Pope’s death “a key point in history where we have the opportunity to embrace [Catholics as] fellow children of God.” That is like failing to set up flares and warning signs for motorists traveling along a highway where a bridge is out and waving them on to their death instead!

Richard N. Ostling, long-time Senior Religious Correspondent for Time, called John Paul II “probably the most popular pope ever among America’s evangelical Protestants. . .” Dan Betzer, pastor of Fort Meyers’ First Assembly of God, enthused: “I have long been an admirer of the Pope. His prayer life is an example to us all. He has lived a godly life. . . His death will leave a great void in the kingdom of God.” Pat Robertson said that “the most beloved religious leader of our age [has passed] from this world to his much deserved eternal reward.”

Like Billy Graham, Richard Land, president of the Southern Baptists’ Ethics and Religious Liberty Commission, emphasized that any disagreements Protestants may have had “with John Paul II are [irrelevant] to the foundations of the faith.” Land praised the Pope’s “staunch defense of traditional Christian faith. . .” Yet John Paul II on more than one occasion gathered together for prayer with doctors, spiritists, animists, Hindus, Buddhists, Muslims, and other leaders of world religions, declared that they were all “praying to the same God,” and credited their prayers with generating “profound spiritual energies” that would create a “new climate for peace.”

We dare not trifle with the eternal destiny of souls. Peter, whom Rome falsely claims was the first pope, declared that “there is none other name [than Jesus Christ]... whereby we must be saved” (Acts 4:12). Not Mary, not Buddha, not anyone but Christ! But John Paul II relied upon Mary for salvation and protection and taught his flock to do the same. We pity him and them for this error.

It is too late to pray for the dead pope’s soul—but we owe it to our Lord and all mankind still living to give them the good news: “For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved” (Jn 3:16,17).

Quotable

I consider it my duty to warn my people and all the friends of Israel that...the most terrible war [is coming] against the people of Israel as a direct result of...giving away to the enemies of G-d our Holy Temple Mount and the...Biblical areas of Israel...We read in the prophetic Scriptures of Ezekiel and Zechariah about the terrible Gog and Magog war which is going to come on the people of Israel...in the time of redemption...when the Messiah...will appear [to] be the eternal King of Israel. This war will also open a new moral and spiritual page in the history of Israel. After this war the people of Israel will not be the same people....

Now we are in Jerusalem, never to be divided...never to pull out from the most ancient and sacred place in Jewish history. Jerusalem is a commitment to our history [and] future. Jerusalem is the symbol of Jewish resurrection. And as such it will survive forever in the hearts...and in the actual life of the Jewish people.

Q&A

Question: Dave, I am distressed by some of the ideas expressed [in The Berean Call]. The Lord Jesus and his followers were and remained observant Jews.... Another distortion [in TBC] is that Paul dismissed the Torah. [No, he] is not telling Jews to disobey the Torah but making it easier for Gentiles to come into the messianic movement. Paul's warning against triumphalism on the part of the Gentiles has been ignored by most of the church who [are] pushing the sons of Jacob offstage [moving] the sons of Ishmael into their place...so Arabs are Israel and Jews are not...."

Answer: How can you imagine that The Berean Call holds to such ideas? We often express the opposite. Yes, "Jesus and his followers were observant Jews" before the Cross, but they did not "remain observant" after the Cross concerning anything that prefigured salvation. Of course, they kept the Passover and feasts that identified them with their Jewish history—but not the Sabbath (Rom 14:1-17; Col 2:16, etc.), nor the priestly sacrifices. Even prior to the Cross, Jesus (the Lord of the Sabbath) and His disciples didn't keep the Sabbath according to the understanding of the rabbis, for which they severely criticized Him (Mt 12:1-13; Mk 2:23-28; Jn 5:8-11, etc.).

The legal system under which Jews were held ("law of commandments contained in ordinances") was "abolished" at the Cross (Eph 2:14-22). The Levitical sacrifices for sin were all fulfilled and done away with in Christ's death, burial, and resurrection. This fact is beyond question: the "veil of the temple was rent in twain from the top to the bottom" (Mt 27:51; Mk 15:38; Lk 23:45). Christ offered the "one sacrifice" that could take away sin, and therefore did away with all of the Levitical sacrifices, which were mere types (Heb 9:23-26; 10:1-22, etc.).

You say that Paul was "attempting to make it easier for Gentiles to come into the Messianic movement." Your terms "Messianic Jews" and "Messianic Movement" are not found once in the Bible. Jews and Gentiles who claim to be part of such a "movement" have departed from Scripture! Sadly, these popular terms seem to imply that Gentiles aren't really Christians in the full sense until they adopt Jewish observances. You don't like the term "Christians," but it is biblical (Acts 11:26; 26:25; 1 Pt 4:16). Though it was a derogatory appellation at first, the followers of Christ seemed to accept it.

Question: I complained to Jack Van Impe that on TV he appears to embrace Catholicism [with] its false gospel of sacraments and works, etc. He replied that while Protestant denominations teach false doctrines, the Catholic Church is getting back to its roots concerning the 1,000-year reign of Christ on earth. Well, I'm upset! The greatest lie in the history of Christendom is that Christ's sacrifice wasn't sufficient to forgive all sins and you need penance, purgatory, Mary, indulgences, baptism, Mass in installments to make up what Jesus' death did not cover. He says that when he heard hatred dripping from the lips of those who criticize Catholics, he decided just to preach the truth. What can I do?

Answer: It is wrong to hate anyone. We are to speak the truth in love and grace, seasoned with salt. But Jack is not speaking the truth when he supports Roman Catholicism. He uses the faults of some who oppose its false teaching in the wrong spirit to excuse himself from bringing correction in the right way. Unfortunately, instead of correcting Roman Catholics in order to rescue them from hell, he tells them they're okay.

He claims that the Catechism of the Catholic Church is mostly biblical. In fact, it is filled with the unbiblical teachings of Rome. Jack called the Pope a born-again Christian. He knows better, so how he can with good conscience so badly lead Catholics and others astray is a mystery. God knows his heart, but we must judge what he says.

No Bible-believing person could ever call the Catechism of the Catholic Church even 20 percent biblical! Instead of rescuing Catholics with the truth, Jack is encouraging them with flattery on their way to the Lake of Fire, robbing multitudes of salvation in Christ!

Question: I agree that our only creed is the Bible, but we are not to separate ourselves from the brethren [but] to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace....I don't believe that anyone can say "I simply rely on God's Word" and then ignore the fellowship of the saints from generations long past. To do so puts one in peril regarding the fundamental doctrines of the Bible. You should seek...and welcome the insights given to saints long ages past by the Holy Spirit....None of us must ever put ourselves above the Faith once for all delivered to the saints....We should take refuge in the "historic Christian faith" as affirmed by many godly men throughout Church history.

Answer: How do I "seek the judgment of the saints down through the centuries"? Where did they record them? And who are these godly men from ages past? Must I search out their writings? And since they disagree with one another, how do I arrive at the majority view, and why should that be the rule? Where could I better find "the Faith that once and for all was delivered to the saints" except in the Bible, where it was recorded by men of God inspired of the Holy Spirit? Or where would we better find "the fundamental doctrines of the Bible" than in the Bible itself?!

I appreciate your concern, but your advice, sincere though it may be, is not wise. Why, in order to find out what the majority believed, must I search through books written long ago by mere men when I can go to the Word of God itself, where the truth is written in clear language that is "sharper than any two-edged sword"! And so to the Bible I will go and, like the Bereans, will stand upon it regardless of what others may say.

Question: You have wasted so much time researching and writing about Calvinism that you ought to be ashamed of yourself. Aren't Calvinists Christians? Isn't it shameful to cause division in the body of Christ by arguing over moot points such as predestination and total depravity? Please respond.

Answer: I can't confess either to having wasted time on this subject or that it involves "moot points." In fact, I believe it is of the utmost importance and I am astonished at the unwillingness of the vast majority of Christians either to take the time to study it or to recognize the basic issue. What is the basic issue? It is the question of whether God truly desires for all men to be saved and gave His Son to pay the penalty for sin and thus has made salvation available to all who will receive it—or whether God created billions of people and predestined them to eternal punishment whom He could just as well have brought to heaven. I don't think anything is more important!

Calvinism gives atheists a legitimate reason to reject a God who causes a select elect to believe the gospel but deliberately places billions outside of His "irresistible grace" because He wants them to suffer for eternity. That is not the God of either the Bible or of the conscience that the true God has given to all mankind! This is the issue, and it the reason we titled the book What Love Is This?!

Question: How does the rise of Islam fit with the revival of Rome? The woman riding the beast represents a world religion headed by the Vatican. Can you see Islam ever uniting with Rome?

Answer: Yes. The Vatican has long been "dialoguing" with Muslims to realize such unity. Muslim leaders have already joined with Rome to oppose abortion. Many Muslim leaders are ecumenists. On May 14, 1999, a delegation of "Christian" and Muslim leaders from Iraq visited the Pope in Rome. They gave the Pope a special copy of the Qur'an. He kissed it and expressed his reverence for it.

Official Catholic declarations claim that the Muslims worship the one true God. For example: "The plan of salvation also includes those who acknowledge the Creator, in the first place amongst whom are the Moslems...and together with us they adore the one, merciful God..." (Vat II, Lumen Gentium, II, 16). Conspicuous by its absence is any reference to Jews as worshipers of Yahweh, while Muslims are put in "first place." Rome accepts anyone of any religion as long as they give allegiance to the Pope.

Your question, however, pertains to true Muslims, for whom there can be no compromise with any non-Muslims, religious or not. How will these be united into a one world religion and government under the Vatican and Antichrist?

Only one event could bring this about: the sudden disappearance of perhaps 100 million people from this planet through the Rapture of true Christians. Terror would grip the entire world, causing the most violent enemies to unite against the common extraterrestrial enemy that has apparently snatched slaves from Earth and in all likelihood will return for more.

This worldwide hysteria will be Satan's opportunity to put into power the man "whose coming is after the working of Satan with all power and signs and lying wonders. And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish..." (2 Thes 2:8-12). Antichrist will seem to have the answer to the crisis, and the world will follow wherever he leads.

At the beginning, he needs the false church (the woman who rides the beast), along with the Vatican's worldwide network. He will claim to be God and "all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world" (Rv 13:8). But when he is established and no longer needs the woman, he will destroy her.

Question: Several scriptures lead me to believe that after we are in the New Jerusalem with our Lord, there is still evil elsewhere. That Revelation 21:27 says that evil will in no way enter the New Jerusalem leads me to believe it will still exist...outside "are dogs..." Please explain.

Answer: Peter refers to the "new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness" (2 Pt 3:13). No evil can enter into God's new creation. It cannot exist just outside the gates of the New Jerusalem. The fact that "without are dogs, and sorcerers..." (Rv 22:15) doesn't mean just outside the gates, but outside of God's new creation and in outer darkness (Mt 8:12; 22:13; 25:30).

Correction: In the March 2005 issue of The Berean Call "Q&A" section, Dave referred to Herod the Great as the murderer of John the Baptist. A sharp reader pointed out that it was Herod Antipas, his son, who killed John. Dave apologizes for this error, which also got past all of the TBC staff.

News Alert

Pittsburgh Tribune Review, 04/14/05: Pittsburgh talk-radio host Marty Minto says he spent most of his time on the air last week doing what he always does—discussing current events from the perspective of an evangelical Christian.

Following a week's worth of conversation on his WORD-101.5 FM show that questioned whether Pope John Paul II's Roman Catholic beliefs could be an impediment to entering heaven, station management pulled the plug.

Minto was fired Friday, ending a three-year stint as host of the radio station's only locally produced show.

"I was called into the office after my show Friday and told that I was being let go because I was alienating the listeners," said Minto, 39, of New Castle, Lawrence County, who previously did talk-radio shows in Albany, N.Y., Phoenix and Denver. Minto also is senior pastor of the 100-member Turning Point Community Church in New Castle.

"As far as I'm concerned, I was doing what I've always done on the radio—look at events around the world from a biblical perspective," said Minto. "I've always been willing to talk about controversial subjects."

Chuck Gratner, general manager of WORD-FM for the past 14 years, said the station does not dispute Minto's account of events. "We ended our relationship" with him because of differences in how he conducted his show, Gratner said. "WORD-FM needs to function in this city in support of the entire church—that means everybody—and not focus on denominational issues," he said.

During the week in which the news was dominated by the death and funeral of the pope, Minto discussed with callers John Paul II's deep devotion to Mary, the mother of Jesus, and Catholic beliefs, such as purgatory.

"I made it clear that the discussion was not an attack on the character of the pope but, rather, a look at the teachings—not only of John Paul, but the Catholic Church in general," Minto said.

Minto said he responded to a question about whether the pope would go to heaven with the belief held by many evangelical Christians that a person must be "a born-again believer."

"I said the question of whether a person is born again is something personal, something between an individual and the Creator," Minto said. "I believe it was a legitimate topic to discuss."

Dear Bro T.A. McMahon,

I just received [your book] Showtime for the Sheep? and I think it's one of the best revelations of what Catholicism is that I've ever read. My family and I have been missionaries to Hispanics for 46 years in Peru, Mexico, and Honduras. You are absolutely right about your former religion. RJ (TX)

Dear Saints,

"Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ" (Col. 2:8)...Many are "spoiled" by bad teaching and have a very weak foundation on Christ....It is surprising to see how easily people are "spoiled" by every wind of doctrine that comes along.... A young mother from another "evangelical" church came to our meeting and afterwards spoke to me concerning the Alpha Course....According to her, we were the [only church] "holding out." I asked her, "What is it about this course that makes it so effective and so superior to simply using...the gospel of John, or...any number of other quality and doctrinally sound Bible studies on the Gospel that have been proven effective over time, are free of charge and don't require any special...seminars on how to use them?" It was embarrassing. She couldn't give any answer. She had jumped on the "band wagon" without ever taking the time to investigate this course....GS (Albania)

Dear Bros. in Christ,

I had no idea of the controversy of Rick Warren's book at first—[but] the church craze was overwhelming (red flag number one). Then I read on page 23 [of A Purpose-Driven Life], about God creating a "custom" us (flag number two). God doesn't "create" something from a sinful union such as rape or casual sex. How could RW say that was God's plan? I couldn't even finish the book because I felt I was condoning something I was uneasy about....I am so glad you wrote the articles on "Consumer Christianity." I loved my church for years, but when the two ministers did a comic dance routine for Sunday service in front of 2,000 people, I was heartbroken once again. I wonder—how many of those in attendance that morning had a heavy heart like myself, and were anticipating a real visit from the Lord in the form of sound Bible preaching? SW (CA)

Dear Sir,

Here in Africa, millions have been killed in the name of Islam, and Muslims have killed their fellow Muslims and Christians too, e.g., in the nation of Sudan next to our nation of Kenya. I fully believe the evil in Africa is Islam and millions do not know this truth. I am glad to be a Christian and am blessed by...The Berean Call newspapers and radio programming. RN (Kenya)

Dear Berean Call,

Please remove me from your mailing list. Your unwavering support for the false doctrine of Zionism is deluding countless many of your readers. It is the most dangerous kind of theology in the world today, causing untold suffering in the Middle East and the draining of our national budget in terms of aid to Israel and the war in Iraq (Zionism the main cause). Also, your constant slandering of Islam is irresponsible and inaccurate. Mostly propaganda to assist the neo-cons and the "war party." Please educate yourselves and find some moral courage before you write any more uninformed drivel. MH (NC)

Dearly beloved The Berean Call,

We praise the Lord for some of the most incredible things showing God's faithfulness to His people in spite of the horrors of the Tsunami disaster. All our believers in that area came from idol worship and demon control. Our churches and our pastors were living in the plains of the seashores there. They were persecuted, robbed and beaten up by Hindu criminal gangs financed by Hindu leaders. [The people] were forced to move to unpopulated nearest hills where the Hindu leaders will not trouble them. On the 26th of December, while our people were worshipping the Lord in our little halls on those hills, they saw the horrifying Tsunami waves more than 20 feet high wiping out all the people in the plains with their homes. Our people stood on their hilltop with uncontrollable tears, crying aloud to the Lord for their persecutors. The Lord protected every one of our people and the Lord knew why He allowed the violence against our people. Our people are ministering with a broken heart to the survivors.... Without the Gospel and the transforming power of the grace of God our people have no hope at any time. This makes our commitment to preach the Gospel stronger....It is difficult for me to write these things without tears and despair. But the Word of God is "let us not be weary in well doing: in due season we shall reap if we faint not" (Gal. 6:9). PP (India)

Dear Mr McMahon,

I have just finished reading your brilliant book on The Passion [Showtime for the Sheep?], which has delightfully confirmed everything I thought about it [the movie].... Yes, block tickets were bought, "coaches" hired, and even now, our local bookshop, which claims to be protestant/evangelical, is still advertising and selling videos and DVDs of the film! This makes me very sad.... JE (United Kingdom)

Loving Enough to Offend

A friend of mine recently asked a Christian bookstore clerk where he might find a book that would be helpful in witnessing to Catholics. She gave him a rather puzzled look, then seemed to take offense at the implication that a Catholic might not be saved.

During that same time period, another friend of mine went into an evangelical Christian bookstore (a national chain) looking for The Gospel According to Rome by Jim McCarthy. Not finding it in the apologetics section, he asked the manager where the books on Catholicism were. The area he was directed to had only books by Catholics for Catholics—along with rosaries, statues, and infant baptism and First Holy Communion materials. My friend, a former Catholic, returned to the manager and asked him quite pointedly why the store was contributing to, and comforting, Roman Catholics in their lost state. The manager replied that it was company policy that employees could not discuss issues that would offend customers.

Nearly 30 years ago, some evangelicals loved this prideful Catholic enough to "offend" me with the biblical gospel, something I'd never heard throughout my life in the Church of Rome. I can't thank them enough for truly caring for me. My fervent prayer is that that same love for Catholic souls would ignite in the hearts of evangelicals today.

Peaceful Words, Provocative Deeds

Excerpts from the new paperback edition of COUNTDOWN TO THE SECOND COMING

by Dave Hunt

In spite of terrorism and looming war clouds in the Middle East, the prospect of a peace such as the world has never known seems to be a realistic hope. That the nations of the world will indeed establish an unprecedented international peace, and perhaps fairly soon, is certain, because the Bible has for thousands of years foretold a false peace in the last days.

That time of peace is prophesied, however, not with joy but with sorrow, for the prophets declared that it would precede a holocaust that would threaten the survival of all life on this planet. Why? The answer to this question comprises the entire subject matter of the Bible, which in fact prophesies the coming of two periods of global peace. The first will be realized for a time under the Antichrist, and the second will be established by the return of Jesus Christ in power and glory to rule this planet where He was so cruelly rejected and crucified.

Earth's war-weary inhabitants will greet the first period of peace ecstatically, convinced that the Millennium has dawned. And, for a time, it will appear that the world's economic, social, and ecological problems have been solved. That will, however, be a great delusion. Biblical prophets have warned that this false peace will usher in the Great Tribulation (after Christ takes His church to heaven in the "Rapture") and will culminate seven years later in the most destructive war in earth's history—Armageddon! In somber revelation, the apostle Paul declared:

When they [the world, not true Christians] shall say, Peace and safety; then sudden destruction cometh upon them as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape. (1 Thessalonians 5:3)

On the one hand, it seems incomprehensible that international peace at last attained should be the prelude to disaster. Yet what else could result from a "peace" established by Antichrist? As always, so today, the world's leaders pursue their negotiations among themselves in utter disregard for the essential role that must be played by the Prince of Peace, Jesus Christ. If mankind could by its own efforts establish a just and lasting peace, it would disprove the Bible—which declares that true peace can come only through Jesus Christ reigning upon earth. In fact, all such humanistic attempts are doomed by man's inherent sinfulness.

< Where Are the Voices of True Peace? >

Are we suggesting that the world's leaders shouldn't even attempt to achieve global peace? Of course, they must try. But those who are not Christians, driven by necessity to pursue every possible means to establish peace, don't realize the futility of their efforts. Christian political leaders, of course, are also compelled to join their secular colleagues in pursuing world peace. At the same time, they must declare solemnly and clearly to the rest of the world that the only true hope for global peace is to repent for having violated God's laws, to receive Jesus Christ as the Savior who has died for the sins of the world, and then to ask Him to come back to this earth to reign....

< The Delusion of Ecumenism >

How dare anyone think that a world ripening for judgment can be rescued by Christians working together in political/social activism with the followers of all religions, and with humanists and atheists! Scripture says repeatedly that nothing but the personal and physical return of Christ to this earth can put an end to its wickedness and suffering. Paul declared that "the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together" as it longs for a release that can come only through "the manifestation of the sons of God" (Romans 8:19-22). Paul makes very clear what this means: That only when Christians have received their immortal bodies and are glorified with Christ (verses 23-25), ruling and reigning upon this earth with Him, will earth be delivered from its turmoil and pain....

< Viewing Current Events Through Scripture >

From the perspective of biblical prophecy, extreme caution is in order, rather than the popular euphoria, in appraising the recent introduction of new freedoms in communist nations and improved relations with the West. We dare not neglect the guidance of Scripture in evaluating current events. And if we will heed God's Word, we will see that what we have been witnessing increasingly around the world could well be leading not to the solution of mankind's problems but to history's greatest disaster.

COUNTDOWN TO THE SECOND COMING: A Chronology of Prophetic Earth Events Happening Now

Dave Hunt, in his characteristic direct style, answers these pervasive questions: Who is the Antichrist? How will he be recognized? What current events indicate that we really are in the last of the "last days"? Using Scripture and up-to-date information, Dave draws the exciting conclusion that, indeed, time is short. He then outlines a biblical response and reminds the reader of the hope we have in Christ. $7.99 retail, 96 pp.

REACHING CATHOLICS FOR CHRIST

A Woman Rides the Beast

Hunt— The Catholic Church and the Last Days. In Revelation 17, the Apostle John describes in great detail the characteristics of a false church that will be the partner of the Antichrist. Was he describing the Roman Catholic Church? To answer that question, Dave has spent years gathering research and indisputable historical documentation (primarily Catholic sources) providing information not generally available. Harvest House, 520 pp.

A Woman Rides the Beast DVD/VHS

Hunt—Most “endtimes” discussions focus on the coming Antichrist—but he is only half the story... Many are surprised to discover that in Revelation 17, there is another mysterious character at the heart of prophecy—a woman who rides the beast. Tradition says this “mystery” woman is connected with the church of Rome. But isn’t such a view outdated? After all, today’s Vatican is eager to join hands with evangelicals and all religions worldwide. Biblical truth and global events present a well-defined portrait of the woman and her powerful place in the Antichrist’s future empire in this powerful, heart-piercing presentation.
